The committee will also receive an update on efforts to better understand cardiovascular adverse events possibly related to ADHD medications.